SURROUNDINGS

Visitors to Canada's westernmost province should pack a long list of superlatives to deploy here; the words 'wow,' 'amazing' and 'spectacular' will only go so far. Luckily, it's not too hard to wax lyrical about the mighty mountains, deep forests and dramatic coastlines that instantly lower heart rates to tranquil levels.

There's much more to British Columbia (BC) than nature-hugging dioramas, though. Cosmopolitan Vancouver fuses cuisines and cultures from Asia and beyond, while mid-sized cities such as Victoria and Kelowna are increasingly creating their own vibrant scenes. It's also hard to beat the welcoming, sometimes quirky character of smaller communities, from Cumberland to Powell River and Salt Spring, that are the beating heart of BC.

Wherever you head, the great outdoors will always call. Don't just point your camera at it: BC is unbeatable for life-enhancing skiing, kayaking and hiking experiences that can make this the trip of a lifetime.

Vancouver Island is studded with colorful, quirky communities, many founded on logging or fishing and featuring the word 'Port' in their names.

Locals are a friendly bunch, proud of their region and its distinct differences. The island is the largest populated landmass between western North America and New Zealand, around 500km long and 100km wide, and hosts a broad range of attractions, experiences and activities that feel many miles from the bustle of mainland Vancouver.

While the history-wrapped BC capital Victoria is the arrival point for many, it shouldn't be the only place you visit here. (And, to make a good impression, don't mistakenly refer to the place as 'Victoria Island.') Food and wine fans will love the Cowichan Valley farm region; outdoor-activity enthusiasts shouldn't miss the surf-loving, wild West Coast radiating from Tofino; and visitors venturing north will find an uncrowded region of independent communities fringed by rugged wilderness.

OTHER ACTIVITIES

Lillooet River Fishing

The Lillooet River is major river of the southern Coast Mountains of British Columbia. Whether you are brand new to fishing or an experienced fisherman, all anglers can only dream of casting their lines into the pristine waters of the Lillooet River. If you are looking to get away from the hustle and bustle of the city, fishing here is the ultimate get away as it has limited human footprint and displays the magnificent wilderness of British Columbia. Imagine standing in our boat listening to the nearby waterfalls and being surrounded by snow-capped mountains while trying to reel in a majestic trout jumping in and out of the water. This is an experience that we at Lang's Fishing Adventures can easily offer since the beautiful scenery and the abundance of fish alone provides an unforgettable trip.

Since the river is only accessible by our powerful jet boats, we start off by crossing the 70km long Harrison Lake which is the largest body of water in south western BC. Although, the boat ride is just over an hour long, it is well worth it as it gives you the opportunity to spot the typical wild residents of this area which includes cougars, black tail deer, turkey vultures, bobcats, grizzlies and black bear from a safe distance. Depending on the time of the year, the Lillooet river can hold steelhead, trout, char, and different species of salmon. We typically fish this river all year as it has always had something to offer.

Pitt River Fishing

The Pitt River in British Columbia is a large tributary of the Fraser River. It is located about 45 minutes from Vancouver. Although the river is close to the city, it is only accessible by air transportation or jet boats that are similar to our fleet. The area is a preserved eco-system that provides a pristine and untouched wilderness experience. This river provides one of the most diverse salmon fishing opportunities that BC has to offer. Depending on the time of the year, different salmon species with its own unique characteristics migrate through the Pitt River.

USEFUL INFORMATION

Deciding where to go with your kids in Canada can be a daunting decision. Mountains, prairies, beaches and easygoing cities are strewn across six time zones. Luckily, between wildlife sightings, cowboy encounters, hands-on pirate history, hunting for dinosaur fossils and ice-skating on mountain lakes, it's impossible to make a bad choice.

Canada offers some of the finest health care in the world. However, unless you are a Canadian citizen, it can be prohibitively expensive. It's essential to purchase travel health insurance if your regular policy doesn't cover you when you're abroad. No special vaccines are required or recommended for travel to Canada. All travellers should be up to date on routine immunizations.
